- 1 This book is divided into eleven chapters. The author is trying to draw a geo-strategic analysis of the region concerned: Central Asia, South-East Asia and the Middle East. He deals with the role and influence of a number of countries like Russia, USA, China, India, Saudi Arabia, Iran and Pakistan. But he mainly criticize the political approach of Iran whereas he is satisfied to give only a descriptive picture of the foreign policy of other countries concerned.
 - 2 There are many scattered information collected to this book without being always integrated with each other.
