“An sàl a’ tighinn gu bàrr/ The brine rising up”

Poetry

Anne Frater
“An sàl a’ tighinn gu bàrr/ The brine rising up”

Poetry

Anne Frater

Anna C Frater/Anne C Frater is a Gaelic poet and scriptwriter. She was brought up in the village of Upper Bayble on the Isle of Lewis, in a home and a community where Gaelic was the main language. Her poetry has been published in various anthologies, as well as in two collections, Fon t-Slige (Gairm, 1995) and Cridhe Creige (Acair 2017).

AUTHOR

ANNE FRATER

Having completed an MA (Celtic and French) and then a Ph.D from Glasgow University, Anne worked in the media for several years before returning to Lewis in 1999. She is now a senior lecturer at Lewis Castle College University of the Highlands and Islands, where she teaches on the Gaelic-medium degree programmes, and on the Gaelic Scotland degree.