Five charters concerning the early history of the chapter at Avranches: an edition revisited¹

Cinq chartes au sujet de l'histoire des débuts du chapitre à Avranches: retour sur une édition

The recent opportunity to re-examine the Livre vert of the cathedral of Avranches, which was the source of the five charters edited in the above-named article², led to the discovery of a number of typographical and transcriptional errors that had been overlooked prior to publication. Combined with the many mistakes of the cartulary scribe, which, except in cases of misspelling, were originally uncorrected, these errors left the texts as first published as very difficult documents to use. The new editions below are therefore offered as a replacement, and include corrections not only to the editor's own mistakes, but also to those of the medieval scribe.

It also became apparent in the course of this re-examination that the second of the five charters was not issued by Richard de Subligny, bishop of Avranches, as originally argued, but rather by his predecessor Richard de Beaufou. All references to the "confirmation", "act" or "charter" of Richard de Subligny should therefore be amended accordingly. This change does not affect the general arguments made in the original article, and it perhaps partly reinforces the idea that the cathedral chapter sought confirmation of the deanship following the Angevin capture of Avranches (see pp. 9-10). This would place the issuance of the first three acts in early 1142.

Finally, given the extent of the changes to the texts of the charters noted below, it has also seemed prudent to improve, where necessary, parts of the main body of the article. The page and line numbers in the following addenda et corrigenda refer to the PDF version of the article.

- p. 3 line 9: for “the eleventh or twelfth centuries” read “for the eleventh or early twelfth centuries”. To the note add the following: “A large number of original charters issued by the twelfth-century bishops of Avranches in favour of the abbeys of Savigny and Mortain can be found at the Archives nationales in Paris, L 967 to 979. Only two, however, date from before 1150.”
- p. 8 lines 24-25: for “in which he and the dean Richard de Subligny record” read “in which he records”

Note. This charter was most likely issued in the months following the capture of Avranches by the count of Anjou in 1142. Strictly speaking, however, it should be broadly dated aft. 12 June 1141 × 25 April 1142, i.e. between the first appearance of Fraternus, abbot of Saint-Ouen, and the death of the bishop of Avranches.
